Stratus Solutions optimized development operations for a multinational testing and measurement manufacturing company to transform the company's existing waterfall process into a lean, agile, and autonomous operation.

Stratus became an integrated partner within the customer's teams helping to train, guide, and implement the agile operations and automation.

Overcoming quality challenges, customer diversity, product complexity, cultural and language differences utilizing well established processes and collaborative tools, Stratus helped this company reduce bugs by more than 70%, reduce CapEX from $10M/year to 500K, and triple the release frequency.

Furthermore, Stratus was able to show a 75% reduction in regression testing time while increasing product security and stability.
